Assistant District-Attorney Callahan is to preside at the meeting and arrange the lines upon which the Club is to be conducted. He has always been identified with the Willoughby street leaders, and the announcement that he was practically at the head of the new movement caused considerable surprise.

Mr. Callahan is close to his superior, James W Ridgway, the District-Attorney, and Mr. Ridgway has always been Mr. McLaughlin's personal representative at the councils of the State leaders of the Democracy.

Politicians, it was said to-day, would not be surprised if Mr. Ridgway should follow his subordinate shortly and join the Good Government organization.

The new organization is not a part of the Bell faction, and it remains to be seen whether they will combine.

The Executive Committee of the Democracy will meet to-night to fix a date for the election of delegates to the new General Committee of which Mr. Bell has announced his desire to be elected Chairman.
